Description In this subject, students continue their research based on the literature review and research design submitted as part of the Construction Research Methods, under the close guidance of the same research supervisor. The research will be extended using appropriate research methods to perform data collection, data analysis and research conclusions. The students will submit an original thesis report on a research endeavour (continued from the research report in subject Construction Research Methods). In addition to the specialist knowledge on the chosen research topic, students will learn a range of skills including academic writing, project management, critical thinking and analytical skills.
