

NURS 7082 LEGAL AND ETHICAL REQUIREMENTS TO SUPPORT DECISION MAKING IN HEALTH CARE

Credit Points 10

Coordinator Leeanne Heaton (https://directory.westernsydney.edu.au/search/name/Leeanne Heaton/)

Description Ongoing advances in technology and demands on health care resources mean that health care professionals are required to participate in decisions of legal, ethical, and professional significance. This subject will provide a comprehensive overview about potential legal, ethical, and professional issues that need to be considered in clinical practice. International and Australian legislation, case law and examples of ethical and moral reasoning will be used to provide a framework to support clinical decision-making. The subject design enables students to think critically and support learning using ethical and legal frameworks to provide a real and relevant connection to impact upon clinical practice.
