 - Postgraduate Bridging Program (Social Work) (<http://handbook.westernsydney.edu.au/hbook/course.aspx?course=1874.1>)

This program delivers an introduction into Social Science postgraduate study by establishing foundational knowledge in social work and social policy; organisational management of community and other non-governmental organisations NGOs; intervention strategies used in the Human Services sector; and ethics in the social sciences. Such a foundation is considered essential for students to succeed in postgraduate programs such as the Master of Social Work (Qualifying).

This bridging program is specifically tailored to those students who have successfully completed an undergraduate degree in any area with a minimum of four (4) completed subjects in the social or behavioural sciences but do not have a specific background in Health, Education or Society and Culture.

Study Mode

30 weeks full-time.
