Coordinator Irena Veljanova (https://directory.westernsydney.edu.au/search/name/Irena Veljanova/)

Description Disability Studies is a multi-disciplinary field that investigates, critiques, and enhances society's understandings of disability. The subject will introduce students to contemporary frameworks for recognising how people with disabilities have experienced disadvantage and exclusion because of personal and societal responses to impairment. The subject will explore how disability activists and scholars have re-conceptualised disability from a more empowering social-political and human rights perspective as an element of human diversity. The subject is grounded in case study pedagogy to ensure the integration of applied practice with rich conceptual and rigorous frameworks.

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this subject, students should be able to:

1. Apply key concepts and the major frameworks (models) for analysing disability.
2. Describe how society's concept of normalcy results in everyday forms of discrimination, exclusion and poverty, in local, national, and global contexts.
3. Explain the ways in which disability rights movements and disabled people have driven change at the local, national and international level.
4. Present information and arguments related to disability studies using an appropriate academic style.
5. Apply strategies to work effectively in a team.
