Description The aim of this subject is to develop skills in applying rigorous analysis and critical assessment to research-debates in business disciplines through an examination of seminal literature in particular business fields which often embrace conflicting theoretical approaches. This will provide candidates with the advanced skills needed to critically analyse debates in a business discipline, while also enabling them to gain more familiarity with theories, issues, and problems in a particular research area. Seminal business papers will be analysed through a balanced and constructive critique of their strengths and weaknesses, providing suggestions for how the work might be extended or improved. From this subject, students will be able to apply the rigorous analytical skills to their own work.

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this subject, students should be able to:

1. Present an overview of the main theories related to their planned research topic from scholarly journals and texts
2. Examine these authors' perspectives on their topic and the arguments that they present
3. Critically analyse the style, structure, and content of the literature and debate and defend their critical analysis
4. Identify and critically analyse the philosophical, theoretical and methodological approaches of the research outlined in the literature
5. Identify and discuss gaps in the literature as it pertains to their research area
6. Employ scholarly conventions used in identifying and accessing information sources, summarising and analysing literature, compiling research reports and articles and in dissertation construction

Subject Content

Seminal debates in business theory will be presented by senior academics from the range of disciplines represented in the School of Business and by visiting scholars. Each seminar will outline the context of the original research contribution and then describe the ensuing debate, drawing also on contemporary work that is based on the developments of, or has arisen from original research. Each seminar will be followed by a workshop session discussing the presentation. The uniting strand of this subject will be a comparison of the debates from the different business disciplines with emphasis on how this knowledge should shape a critical review of the theories informing the candidate's planned research.
